Our journey began thirty years ago in 1998 with Ar. Anil Arora being the pioneer of meticulous designs, comprehension and detailed artisanship. In the year 2023, what started off as an interest in customized furniture, the co-founding partners Ar. Utkarsh Arora and Ar. Shivank Singhal, both having hands-on experience and international exposure took on the responsibility to take Woodex to new heights. As pioneers in the industry, we take pride in revolutionizing living spaces with our versatile and contemporary designs.

Apart from including the whole gamut of manufacturing capabilities, Woodex has a vast range of clientele, from residential to hospitality, from retail to organisational, that enables us to understand that every space is unique, and our modular furniture is crafted to seamlessly integrate into diverse environments.

We with our team of highly experienced artisans and craftsmen aim to adhere to rigorous standards to ensure that every piece of furniture bearing our name is a mark of durability, functionality, and timeless style.

Our team of design experts and customer service professionals is always ready to guide you through the process, from selecting the perfect modular piece to its seamless integration into your space. We believe in making the journey as delightful as the end result.

Beyond crafting furniture, we are curators of possibilities!!

Curated assembly of wardrobes that often share a cohesive theme, design aesthetic, or functionality represents a carefully selected range of wardrobe options designed to cater to diverse tastes and preferences. Wardrobe collections are crafted to offer consumers a variety of choices while ensuring that each piece within the collection maintains a consistent style or purpose. It includes versatile pieces that can seamlessly integrate into different interior settings. Whether the design is contemporary, traditional, minimalist, or eclectic, the versatility of the collection ensures that consumers can find wardrobes suitable for various rooms and design schemes.

Well-curated wardrobe collection pays attention to the quality of materials used and the finishes applied. This could range from solid wood and veneers to modern materials like metal and glass. The choice of materials contributes not only to the aesthetic appeal but also to the durability and longevity of the wardrobe pieces. In the same breath, recessed and inbuilt handles provide a silent touch of excellence that is a design purist's dream come true.

Through this range, we endeavor to give a befitting personal touch to every room. After all, the structures that secure our belongings should effortlessly showcase our style as well.

kitchen collection

Carefully curated assortment of kitchen components and fixtures are designed to create a functional, aesthetically pleasing, and highly customizable kitchen space. A well-designed modular kitchen collection maintains a unified design aesthetic, ensuring that each module complements the others. This cohesion may be achieved through consistent color palettes, materials, and overall design themes, contributing to a harmonious and stylish kitchen environment.

The collection showcases a variety of materials, from traditional wood finishes to modern materials like stainless steel, glass, and laminates. This diversity allows homeowners to choose materials that not only align with their aesthetic preferences but also cater to practical considerations such as durability and ease of maintenance.

Modular kitchens are designed for easy installation and assembly. The collection typically includes pre-fabricated modules that can be easily put together, reducing the need for extensive on-site construction. This feature not only saves time but also allows for flexibility in adapting the kitchen layout. Durable materials and precision in manufacturing contribute to the longevity and resilience of the kitchen modules, ensuring that they withstand the rigors of daily use.
